Making and Drinking Wine

- Most juice was allowed to ferment to make safe for storage and later drinking
 - Took full fresh goatskin, sewed up cuts, filled with juice, hung up
 - Some would sew skin with hair inside for distinctive flavor, done today in some cultures
- Fresh skins were used to allow expansion from fermenting process
 - Matthew 9:17
- Fermented wine was stored in amphorae, large pointed jugs
 - When ready to drink, wine poured into kraters (large bowls) and mixed with water
 - Typically 3 parts water to 1 part wine, up to 8:1, 10:1 or even 20:1
 - Mixed wine poured from kraters into kylix (cups) for drinking
- Only drunkards and barbarians drank wine straight or in 1:1 mix, called strong drink
 - Leviticus 10:8-9
